

Once upon a time there were two Titans, mighty and very powerful creatures.

Ages ago they were created by the Creator of Being from the then glowing-hot earth and were to shape the world from then on.

The two Titans stood for courage and fear

Courage and fear are strongly connected, without one the other should not exist.

However, after some time the darkness that fear brings with it reigned in Timouruk.

Fortemuk had many admirers, his ideals were cherished by the inhabitants of the planet and he was prayed to a lot.

Because of this, a terrible envy towards his brother was born in Timouruk and out of this envy came hatred.

So the Titan of fear raged.

He burned the villages, and cities to punish the inhabitants for their one-sided prayers
